To understand the impact of attention on reality, look at your own individual practice of listening

Suspending our habitual ways of seeing, going to the edges of the system we're interested in learning about and changing.

Blending of presence and sensing, means to connect with the source of our highest future possibility-and to bring it into the now.

Clarify a sense of the future that wants to emerge, and explore the future by doing

Decide which prototypes might have the highest impact on the system and inspire others to engage our vision.
